

Game Based Learning – Faculty Learning Community Milestone Badge

Description

The Faculty Learning Community formed from the growing interest in game-based learning and gamification in higher education in general and on campus. FLC meetings will include open conversation about our interests in GBL, the challenges we face in integrating GBL, discussions of scholarship on GBL, presentations on GBL activities in our classes, and active participation in GBL.

Course Offering

The FLC will meet 6 times: 3 meetings in Fall and 2 meetings in Spring plus participation in the CTE Teaching & Learning Conference.

Completion Criteria

In order to receive a milestone badge for the course, the following deliverables must be completed:

1. Complete the requirements for the GBL microbadge:
  - Attend at least 2 meetings in the fall AND at least 2 meetings in the spring
  - Develop a blueprint for a game-based activity in the classroom and post your plan to Discussions with some description of the following components:
    - i. Objectives/goals/outcomes for activity
    - ii. Activities/assignment description
    - iii. Assessment of activity
2. Share scholarship relevant to your field at FLC / on D2L page.
3. Present on research in progress on game-based learning at the CTE Teaching & Learning Day or other conference.

4. Report on how you tried something new and how it worked out. This will include a reflection with assignments, rubrics, and student artifacts and/or comments (2-3 pgs.).
